

Privacy Policy of Merschman Seeds, Inc.

Please carefully read this policy. By visiting and utilizing this website, you are agreeing to Merschman Seeds' use of your personal information as set out in this Privacy Policy.

The privacy policy of Merschman Seeds, Inc. covers our website located at <http://www.merschmanseeds.com>. Merschman Seeds values the privacy of individuals who visit our website and is committed to protecting those privacy interests. This privacy policy sets forth important information regarding the use of personal information collected from individuals visiting this site.

Individuals are free to browse and access materials from our site without disclosing personal information. Please be assured that we have taken all reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality and security of your information at all times. We do not release any personal information, which an individual may provide to any outside parties without that individual's express permission. Merschman Seeds, Inc. also fully complies with HIPAA privacy regulations.

Merschman Seeds does not automatically collect personal information from the use of our website nor do we use cookies to store personal information. We do not collect personal information from other sources such as public records or private databases nor do we release or sell personal information about those who access our website.

We do collect personal information that is voluntarily provided while using our services on the website. All privacy practices and regulations also apply to this information.

Merschman Seeds does not disclose personal information to other organizations unless proscribed by law or as part of third party contractual agreements. We ensure that personal information will not be disclosed to federal or state institutions and authorities except as required by law or other regulation.

We have instituted technical measures to protect personal information in our files from unauthorized access; improper use or disclosure; unauthorized modification, or unlawful destruction or accidental loss.

All Merschman Seeds' employees who have access to and who process voluntary personal information provided are obligated to maintain the confidentiality of the information.

Merschman Seeds is not held responsible for any content or privacy practices of third party websites that are accessible from the Merschman Seeds' website.

If you have questions or need further information about Merschman Seeds' privacy policy, please call (800) 848-SEED or e-mail juliem@merschmanseeds.com.

